SOCIOLOGY COURSE OFFERINGS
Spring 2022

UNDERGRADUATE

Introduction to Sociology
SOCI 1110-001
Ryan Goodman
TR 12:30-1:45
This course will introduce students to the basic concepts and theories of sociology, as well as to the methods utilized in sociological research. The course will address how sociological concepts and theories can be utilized to analyze and interpret our social world, and how profoundly our society and the groups to which students belong influence them.

Introduction to Sociology
SOCI 1110-002
Diana Torres
MWF 12:00-12:50
This course will introduce students to the basic concepts and theories of sociology, as well as to the methods utilized in sociological research. The course will address how sociological concepts and theories can be utilized to analyze and interpret our social world, and how profoundly our society and the groups to which students belong influence them.

Introduction to Sociology
SOCI 1110-006
Diana Torres
Online
This course will introduce students to the basic concepts and theories of sociology, as well as to the methods utilized in sociological research. The course will address how sociological concepts and theories can be utilized to analyze and interpret our social world, and how profoundly our society and the groups to which students belong influence them.

Introduction to Sociology
SOCI 1110-007
Jon Williams
Online
This course will introduce students to the basic concepts and theories of sociology, as well as to the methods utilized in sociological research. The course will address how sociological concepts and theories can be utilized to analyze and interpret our social world, and how profoundly our society and the groups to which students belong influence them.

Introduction to Sociology
SOCI 1110-008
Diana Torres
Online
This course will introduce students to the basic concepts and theories of sociology, as well as to the methods utilized in sociological research. The course will address how sociological concepts and theories can be utilized to analyze and interpret our social world, and how profoundly our society and the groups to which students belong influence them.

Introduction to Criminal Justice Systems
SOCI 2120-002
Elizabeth Sabbath
Online
This course provides an introduction to social issues that are currently affecting the criminal justice system in the United States. The course will cover the history of the U.S. criminal justice system and how our system compares with other countries.

Introduction to Criminal Justice Systems
SOCI 2120-003
Elizabeth Sabbath
Online
This course provides an introduction to social issues that are currently affecting the criminal justice system in the United States. The course will cover the history of the U.S. criminal justice system and how our system compares with other countries.

Sociology of Deviance
SOCI 2210-001
Colin Olson
MWF 11:00-11:50
This course is designed to provide an overview of the study of deviance and social control from multiple sociological perspectives. The instructor will present how sociologists research deviance and social control and the ethical issues involved in studying human subjects involved in these activities. The course also examines central sociological theories for understanding the causes of deviant behavior.

Sociology of Deviance
SOCI 2210-003
Erin Coleman
Online
This course is designed to provide an overview of the study of deviance and social control from multiple sociological perspectives. The instructor will present how sociologists research deviance and social control and the ethical issues involved in studying human subjects involved in these activities. The course also examines central sociological theories for understanding the causes of deviant behavior.

The Dynamics of Prejudice
SOCI 2315-002
Florence Castillo
T 4:00-6:30
This course is designed to help students understand how attitudes and beliefs of individuals shape intergroup relations and their impacts on the daily lives of individuals as well as the effects that these beliefs have on the larger social structure of American society. We will examine how profoundly our society and the groups to which we belong, influence us and our beliefs and ultimately how these beliefs shape prejudice in our society.

Environmental Sociology
SOCI 305-001
Maricarmen Hernandez
TR 11:00-12:15
Examination of humans and the environment from an ecological perspective. Focus on industrial and economic growth, natural resources development, environmental values and movements, resource management, and comparative perspective on people’s relationship to the environment.

Sociology of Aging and the Aged
SOCI 310-001
Diana Torres
TR 11:00-12:15
Descriptive and theoretical study of the social situation of older persons in contemporary industrial societies; the impact on societal institutions of an increasing percentage of older citizens.

Causes of Crime & Delinquency
SOCI 312-001
Daniel Ragan
TR 11:00-12:15
A survey of criminological theories exploring why some people are more likely to engage in crime than others and why crime rates vary over time and space and across social groups. Attendant policy issues will also be discussed.

Causes of Crime & Delinquency
SOCI 312-003
Samuel Torres
Online
A survey of criminological theories exploring why some people are more likely to engage in crime than others and why crime rates vary over time and space and across social groups. Attendant policy issues will also be discussed.

Couples, Family & Friendship
SOCI 325-001
Reuben Thomas
TR 2:00-3:15
An overview of sociological research on the strongest social relationships and primary social groups: those of love, family and friendships.

Social Movements
SOCI 331-001
Ryan Goodman
MWF 11:00-11:50
The study of riots, disturbances, social movements and other forms of contentious collective behavior. Strategies of conflict and conflict resolution are considered.

Sociology of Medical Practice
SOCI 340-001
Diana Torres
TR 12:30-1:45
An introduction to the delivery of health care in the U.S. and selected other countries is pursued with an emphasis on the interaction of patients, professionals and health care institutions.

Sociology of Medical Practice
SOCI 340-002
Natalie Fullenkamp
Online
An introduction to the delivery of health care in the U.S. and selected other countries is pursued with an emphasis on the interaction of patients, professionals and health care institutions.

Health & Social Inequalities I
SOCI 346-001
Jessica Goodkind
TR 9:00-10:45
This course explores theories and mechanisms related to how social inequities in education, housing, employment, health care, safety, resources, money, and power contribute significantly to health disparities globally, within countries, and within specific urban environments.

Health & Social Inequalities II
SOCI 347-001
Jessica Goodkind
T 4:00-6:30
This service-learning course provides students the opportunity to apply knowledge about social inequalities and health to working with community members to create change that improves health and reduces health disparities.

Sociological Theory
SOCI 371-001
Ranita Ray
TR 2:00-3:15
The study of how theory is constructed and applied by sociologists including traditions from 19th-century sociological founders and contemporary theoretical formulations.
Sociological Theory
SOCI 371-002
Niame Adele
MWF 10:00-10:50
The study of how theory is constructed and applied by sociologists including traditions from 19th-century sociological founders and contemporary theoretical formulations.

Introduction to Research Methods
SOCI 380-001
Ryan Goodman
TR 2:00-3:15
A survey of the major methods of social research: foundations of social research, research design, sampling and measurement, quantitative and qualitative research methods and data analysis.

Introduction to Research Methods
SOCI 380-002
Richard Greene
MWF 11:00-11:50
A survey of the major methods of social research: foundations of social research, research design, sampling and measurement, quantitative and qualitative research methods and data analysis.

Introduction to Research Methods
SOCI 380-003
Colin Olson
TR 11:00-12:15
A survey of the major methods of social research: foundations of social research, research design, sampling and measurement, quantitative and qualitative research methods and data analysis.

Sociological Data Analysis
SOCI 381L-001
Kiwoong Park
W 12:00-12:50
R 4:00- 6:30
Introduction to quantitative sociological data analysis using basic statistics (both descriptive and inferential) and to the use of statistical software to analyze empirical data.

Sociological Data Analysis
SOCI 381L-002
Georgiann Davis
Online
Introduction to quantitative sociological data analysis using basic statistics (both descriptive and inferential) and to the use of statistical software to analyze empirical data.

Introduction to Community Safety & Human Security
SOCI 398-001
Kenneth Carpenter
TR 3:30-4:45
Introduces the student to and analyzes current movements to reform and improve safety in our communities and provide for basic human rights and human needs at state, tribal and local community levels.

Inequality & Power
SOCI 398-002
Ranita Ray
T 4:00-6:30

Health and Social Inequality Lab
SOCI 398-007
Jessica Goodkind
Arranged

Sociology of Corrections
SOCI 414-001
Paul Guerin
TR 08:00-09:15

Sociology of Law
SOCI 416-001
Colin Olson
TR 12:30-1:45

Social Networks and Crime
SOCI 419-001
Daniel Ragan
TR 2:00-3:15

Sociology of Religion
SOCI 422-001
Richard Wood
MW 4:30-5:45

Crime Through the Life Course
SOCI 425-001
Lisa Broidy
TR 11:00-12:15

Sociology of Madness
SOCI 427-001
Kristin Barker
Online
SOC 531: Sociology Teaching Seminar
Ryan Goodman & Colin Olson
W 3:00-5:30
This course is a professional development seminar that explores the dynamics of teaching undergraduate sociology. Topics include syllabus development, lecture preparation and delivery, interactive learning methods, taxonomies of learning, development of assignments to match learning objectives, and grading approaches. Students will develop a teaching portfolio and will prepare a course to teach on their own.

SOC 582: Advanced Social Statistics II
Jack Thomas
M 4:00-6:30
Additional advanced methods for quantitative social research: regression methods for categorical outcomes (logit, poisson, etc), missing data methods, and multilevel models. Prerequisite: 581, or a similar course.

SOC 595: Sociology of the Body
Georgiann Davis
W 4:00-6:30
Our bodies are as social as they are biological. They are intertwined with our lives including, but not limited to, our race, class, sex, gender, and sexuality. They are presumed to predict the type of work we can effectively perform, and among other things, how (if at all) we participate in sports. Our bodies are policed and simultaneously marketed to with little hesitation. In this graduate seminar, we will engage in a sociological study of the body. We will ask many questions about the body including: What is the “ideal” body and why and how does it vary across demographics? Where and how do we learn about bodies? Why do we do what we do with our bodies? And, what can we learn from bodies?

SOC 595: Racial Structure, Crime, & Justice
Christopher Lyons
T 3:00-5:30
Dramatic disparities in exposure to crime and the criminal justice system are central to understanding racial and ethnic inequality in the U.S. In this seminar, we explore some of the political, social, economic, and ideological foundations of the ethno-racial divide in crime and justice. We will focus on both historical and contemporary factors, drawing on qualitative and quantitative accounts that theorize and explain crime and criminal justice as a racially stratifying system. Among other topics, we will discuss policing and the use of force, the collateral consequences and origins of mass incarceration, immigration and crime, bias motivated crime, segregation, and the dynamics of community organization.